Brown Attacks GOP High Command at Rally Here

Edmund G. (Pat) Brown opened the oratorical guns in his campaign for California governor at a luncheon in Torrance's Polynesian Restaurant Saturday night with more than 1000 persons in attendance.

The candidate declared that "the GOP high command in California needs a thorough house-cleaning."

"I'm confident the voters are going to do that job this November," he added.

Brown made the charge at a Democratic rally which was attended by Democratic leaders in the 17th Congressional District.

"The small power group trying to take over the GOP by using the senator's candidacy is arrogant, ingrown and out of touch with 20th Century realities," Brown said.

The candidate was presented at the out-door affair by Mayor Albert Isen, chairman of the committee which planned the dinner reception.

Several South Bay mayors and councilmen served on the committee making arrangements for the political rally.
